2024–2025 National School Foods Study

About the Study	The National School Foods Study will continue the long-standing commitment of the USDA Food and Nutrition Service to comprehensively assess school meal programs. This important study will inform current and future policy decisions to better serve students. The results from similar past studies can be found at FNS website: <ul style="list-style-type: none">• www.fns.usda.gov/school-nutrition-and-meal-cost-study• www.fns.usda.gov/school-food-purchase-study-iii FNS has contracted with Mathematica and its research partners Decision Information Resources (DIR) and ProTeam Foodservice Advisors to conduct this study. The study will collect a broad range of data from public school food authorities (SFAs), schools, and students and their parents.
Participating in the Study	More than 1,000 SFAs across the country are participating in the study! The study will only collect data necessary for the study's success. Participation by selected state agencies, school districts, and schools is required under Section 28 of the Richard B. Russell National School Lunch Act.
Protecting Privacy	All information gathered from SFAs, schools, and households is for research purposes only. It will be kept private to the full extent allowed by law. When reporting findings, we will group responses with those of other study participants. Individual schools, parents, and students will not be identified outside of the study team. The data files provided to FNS will exclude the names and any individually identifiable information of persons that participate in the Study and will exclude any school names. We will inform selected parents of the study and of our privacy practices. Any selected parent or student can choose not to participate in the study. We are not conducting audits or monitoring visits. Taking part in the study will not affect meal payment to participating SFAs and schools or school meal program benefits to participating households.
